Organizations have a wide range of objectives, and they frequently focus their efforts and resources on achieving these objectives. Organizations have both human and nonhuman resources (plant, equipment, land, money, etc.) that are used to achieve target and deadline-oriented goals. The force that combines resources in support of organizational objectives is management. It is a method of achieving goals with and via people. When people collaborate inside an organisation, management is required. A person who is competent of managing organised activities, whether it be a company operation, religious organisation, military outfit, or a social organisation, must carry out the management duties, which include planning, organising, directing, and regulating. These functions are carried out at all levels of an organisation, regardless of its nature or size. All cooperative projects require management services.

Cima Ba2 Fundamentals of Management Accounting Study Text Routledge

This is the first volume exclusively dedicated to planning education, with a focus on India and learning from global experiences for India. Prior to the 1990s, planning education in India was largely confined to national and local economic concerns. Within a globalized scenario, such pedagogies and theories have become outmoded. With new concerns emerging in planning, new pedagogical tools and theorizations need to be developed within planning curricula to provide today's planners with the wherewithal to adapt to changing and globalizing cities and regions in India. Therefore, the eminent contributors to this volume deal exclusively and comprehensively with planning education in a globalized context. Divided into four thematic sections, this volume provides a comprehensive view of planning education in India, with focus on:

- The trajectory of planning education in India.
- The kinds of knowledge used for teaching in Indian planning schools, and whether some sort of integration of diverse knowledges is achieved.
- The ethical foundations of urban and regional planning in Indian planning schools.
- The role of international planning perspectives in providing new insights for Indian planning education.

 Comprehensive and topical, this volume is of interest to academics and researchers from planning institutes, urban and regional planners and policy makers, as well as architects, social geographers and economists.
